Death of Owen Lovejoy.

The telegraph has already conveyed to us the sad intelligence that Hon. Owen Lovejoy, member of Congress from the Fifth Illinois district, died in Brooklyn at half past 11 o'clock on Friday night. The following biographical notice we find in the N. Y. Evening Post:

Mr. Lovejoy had been complaining since last January, but came to this city from Washington on the 15th, and the following day was out of doors; since then he has been confined to his bed with an affection of the liver and kidneys. He was attended in his last illness by his wife and daughter, and by many sympathizing friends. Mr. Lovejoy was a self-made man. Born in Kennebunk county, Maine, in 1811, he passed his boyhood working on a farm, and paid his way through Bowdoin College by teaching school. Studying theology, he received a call to the pastorate of the Congregational Church at Princeton, N. J., where he remained for sixteen years, until, in 1836, he was elected to represent his district in Congress, where he was prominent as a bold and fearless advocate of freedom for all. In 1847 his brother, Rev. E. P. Lovejoy, then a Methodist editor, was murdered at Alton, Illinois, by a pro-slavery mob; and since then Owen Lovejoy had, naturally enough, manifested a deeper intensity in his hatred of slave institutions; and to those of the opposite party his born, unsparring denunciations had rendered him peculiarly obnoxious.

Among the incidents of his political career, it will be remembered that shortly after the struggle for the Presidency of 1848, when the result resulted in the election of Mr. General Banks, Mr. Lovejoy was speaking very earnestly, when he was interrupted by Fryer, of Virginia, who said he did not wish to hear any more of such trash. To this Mr. Lovejoy replied that for six weeks the House had listened to the "trash" of the Democratic members, and now it was his turn. Mr. Lovejoy was at once opposed by the Republican members, and Mr. Fryer, a member of the Democratic—since, secessionists. It was a really notable struggle for the maintenance of free speech in our Congressional halls, and for an incidental result, the members and Mr. Fryer challenged—a duel which never took place.

Mr. Lovejoy was exceedingly popular in the district which he represented, where he possessed great personal popularity, and bold discussions of political questions, while he was yet a pastor, aided to form the political opinions of his constituents. In private life he was amiable and irreproachable.

The Character of our Veteran Soldiers.

We are permitted to make the following extract from a letter of Col. H. M. Plaised, of the Maine Eleventh, dated at Morris Island, S. C., March 10th, to Mayor McClellan of this city. It presents a view of the influence of army life upon the soldiers which is most gratifying to contemplate; especially when we reflect that sooner or later—soon we hope—these soldiers, relieved from the duties of military life, will return home to dwell among us, and with us to take part in controlling the political affairs and in shaping the destiny of a country whose honor and integrity they have done so much to defend:

"You are right when you say that there is honesty and honor in the army. Nor is it confined to the officers. We often hear of recruits stealing from one another on their way to the army and after their arrival, but not so of our veterans." You will not hear of them robbing each other on their way home, though their pockets may be full of money. The service makes them better men and better citizens, unless their conduct is greatly wanting. There is good reason for it, in the wholesome discipline, and in the absence of temptations. Besides, the life of soldiers is the constant exercise of the highest virtues; love of order and obedience to their colors and commanders, Temperance, Courage, Patience, and Patriotism. All that old story about the demoralizing effects of war I do not believe in. It is my firm belief that I have not a man, nor a regiment, who is not a better man to-day—and will make a better citizen—than he was when he enlisted in the army. This I believe to be true of regiments generally, and could give you many most interesting examples of individual cases in proof of what I say.

You need never fear, however long the war may last, that our body politic will be corrupted by the return of old soldiers, who will carry with them to their homes the same love of order and industry, the same generosity and patriotism they have exercised in the service. Allow me to say these things for your encouragement. I have often thought that you at home needed more encouragement than the soldiers. We are schooled to patience by the necessities of war and by our military training.

If the war must last, let it. There is only one way out of it for us, and that is through it, to one complete and final triumph; if we would not be infamous in history. If you give us a chance now, by a resolute war, you will see us no backing down in the "returns from the army."

Letter from Bath.

BATH, March 20, 1864.

To the Editor of the Press:

As it has been unpleasant weather till yesterday during my visit at this region, I have been unable to get around much. But Providence has at last favored my unfortunate friend, and he has now tried to make himself useful as well as ornamental. Thus far, wherever I have been, in the surrounding region, a good word has been spoken for your paper, and what I intend to do in the future will be for the benefit of the Press. There is a better feeling in regard to the paper now than there was in the same circles only one short year ago. I don't know as leaves and fishes have anything to do with it, but it has been inclined to think that the bold stand it has taken and maintained has "turned many from darkness to light."

Bath has always been noted for its ship building, and this season has not been an exception. A large number of fine crafts are now on the stocks, and many of them are almost ready to launch. A splendid schooner named Adriana, of 150 tons, was launched last Wednesday from the yard of Mr. D. O. Blaisdell. She is to be commanded by Capt. Samuel Williams. Yesterday a large crowd of people were seen wending their way to the ship-yard of Messrs. Lemont & Robinson, to witness the launch of the superior ship "Aberdeen." It was most successful launch. She is nearly 800 tons burden and is to be commanded by Capt. Anderson. Business is brisk and there is every prospect for its continuing so for some time. The Ravell Troupe has just concluded a successful engagement in this city. They are to visit Portland again very soon.

HEAVY ROBBERY.—While Mr. Willard B. Heath, (watchmaker and jeweller,) and family were at the meeting at Norwobega Hall, last evening, some burglars effected an entrance to his dwelling house on Spring street, by prying open a window with a jimmy, and carried off 80 watches, $75 in money, 8 gold rings, 2 gold pencils and 5 gold chains—amounting in all to $1500 or more, says the Bangor Whig.

The Legislature have defined "the Lord's day," to extend legally from midnight Saturday to midnight Sunday.

The New London Nail Company, in Connecticut, turns out seventeen hundred pounds of nails a day.

It is reported for the sixth or seventh time, that Rev. C. H. Spurgeon, is about to visit this country.

The 1100 rebel prisoners received an enthusiastic reception at Richmond on the Sunday of their return.

Gov. Gilmore of N. H. who has been considered dangerously ill, we are happy to learn, is recovering.

Pork packing in St. Louis in 1863 was largely in excess of any former year.

The total number of pigs which fell under the sacrificial knife was 239,731.

The dwelling house of a Mr. Perkins, in Fairfield, near Smithfield, was considerably damaged by fire, on Thursday last, as we learn from the Waterville Mail.

A Hartford man has expended $30,000 on a stable, which is said to be "fitted up as nicely as a gentleman's residence," and in which there are 300,000 worth of fine horses.

The Boston Transcript says that Ball's equestrian statue of Washington is nearly completed, and will soon be open for exhibition.

Three Boston artists will leave this spring for Europe—Wright, Cole and Bacon—the latter a young artist who goes to Paris to study the figure.

Wm. W. Penney, son of Mr. Wm. G. Penney, of Waterville, a member of Co. B, 15th Maine Regiment, died at the St. Louis Hospital, New Orleans, on the 7th inst., aged 20 years.

The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher is no longer, either real or nominal, editor of the New York Independent, his mantle in that respect having fallen on his young friend Theodore Tilton.

The Frankfort Commonwealth has taken bold and decided grounds against the attempt to sell out the Union party of Kentucky to the Vallandigham Democracy of the North.

The Richmond Whig, says the South want peace and are "ready to accept" on any terms, which General Lee, standing in Faneuil Hall, may choose to dictate to the base born wretches who have sought to enslave us.

A correspondent of the N. Y. Herald says that that sells in the New York market for $8 or $10 a barrel is selling for $5 or 6 in Liverpool. It will be taken into account that $5 or $6 Liverpool currency is nearly as much as $8 or $10 Yankee money.

At a meeting of the milk producers of Lowell and neighborhood, held on Saturday, the 19th inst., it was voted that the price of milk to dealers should be three cents per quart for six months, from April 1st, and four cents during the remainder of the year.

A company of Boston capitalists are erecting buildings in South Boston for the extensive manufacture of plate glass. The sand to be used in the manufacture is to be brought from Berkshire county, and four hundred workmen are expected over from England in a few days.

The Philadelphia Bulletin says the present high price of coal is by no means an unmitigated evil, since it is developing a competition in the mining business which must soon put an end to the existing combination, and guarantee an ample supply of cheap fuel for all time to come.

The following letter was received by a gentleman of Poughkeepsie through the "Sanitary Fair Post Office" at that place—"Sanitary Fair Post Office—Enclosed please find Ten dollars—if you can. Very respectfully yours, Josh Billings." The $10 had not been found at last accounts.

The Louisville Journal, speaking of the Copperhead candidacy for the Presidency, says, "Gen. McClellan is in this relation not only the most prominent, but without a competitor. I like Jupiter among the gods, he is first, and there is no second." McClellan resembles Jupiter also in the fact that he is the myth of a dead religion and the idol of a past worship.—Chicago Tribune.

The Louisville Journal says, "as things now stand, Gen. McClellan's nomination by the Chicago Convention is on all hands conceded to be a foregone conclusion." The Chicago Tribune says, referring to the foregoing, that Gen. McClellan's popularity arises not so much from the fact that "things now stand," as the fact that "things now lie."

Says the Chicago Tribune, "the vernal attempt to sell out the Union men of Kentucky, although coated with the sugary name of Union conservative, will never succeed. The Devil, when he promised to give away all the kingdoms of the world, purposed an easy task compared with that of afflicting men who have endured the highest of all sacrifices in resisting treason with those who are sympathizing with that treason."

Judge Wylie has granted an injunction against George M. "Sodomites" is now attracting very considerable attention, and well it may. The article represented by this musical name, is one of the best preparations for the teeth and gums that has ever been offered to the public.

We have been familiar with its results for some years past, and have never known a case in which it was not pleasing and highly satisfactory. It polishes the teeth, hardens the gums, and gives a wholesome tone to the mouth and breath, and is recommended by all.
